

Time Capsule

Have you ever found something from a long time ago? We learn so much from things we find from the past. We have a really good idea about how people lived thousands of years ago based on historical objects that have been discovered.

Wouldn't it be great to become part of history? We can do this by burying a time capsule. Over the past few months the world and our daily lives have been very different to what we are used to and we have experienced changes and circumstance very different to anything we have experienced before. We can share these experiences with the people of the future.

Just think, in years to come, someone will find the things you have buried and learn what it was like to live in this moment in time!
